Proper's Journal.-We have received the first No. of this Journal of Agriculture and the Meebanic Arts. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, and elegantly illustrated with fine engravings. Published at New York by ALPRED E. BEACH at fifty cents per volume. We recommend it to our friends with pleasure.

We call the attention of our farming friends to the advertisement of the Nashville Plough Manufactory in this morning's paper. This establishment is one of the largest in the West, and is doing work as well and as cheap as any in the North. We hope our friends will send to Nashville when they want farming implements; we believe they can be better suited here than elsewhere.

THEATRE-Last evening Mrs FARREN played the ardnous character of Mrs. Haller, in the "Stranger," with her accustomed grace and excellence, to a respectable, though, we are sorry to say, not a very full house. "Lucretia Bogia," was also well performed by her. To-night this lady again appears - sustained by the whole force of the theatreand Mr. FARREN, also-in the play of "Evadne," The entertainments to conclude with the new and interesting drama of "St. Mary's Eve," which was so well received on Tuesday evening. May an overflowing house greet her on the occasion.

Dr. Dewey.-We understand that an effort is being made by several of our citizens, to get this eminent Divine to deliver a course of lectures in this city. Dr. Dewey is the author of several theological works of rare merit-works which have made an indelible impression on the religious thought of the Wo the Age. As a lecturer he ranks first in the calender. He is at present delivering a course of twelve lectures, called his Lowell lectures, before the Mercantile Library Association of St. Louis. For this course they pay him twelve hundred dollars. We understand that more than fifteen hundred persons were in attendance at the first lecture-at a dollar a head-which more than realized the amount engaged to be paid for the whole series. It is to be hoped that our citizens will subscribe liberally so of the United States in 1852-53 was 3,262,882 bales; to which, if we add the previous stock on hand of 91,176 bales, we have for the total quantity now 3,354,058. Of this amount, after deducting the foreign export and a stock on hand in the country of 135,643 bales and 20,861 bales burnt at New Orleans there remain 671,009 bales for home consumption against 603,029 last year, and 404,108 the year before, exclusive of the amount consumed by manufacturers south of Virginia. In this and southern establishments, it is estimated that 20,000 bales are used in North Carolina, 10,000 in South Carolinia, 20,000 in Georgia, 5,000 in Alabams, 5,000 in Tennessee, and 30,000 on the Ohio; making a total of 90,000 bales; which, if added to the stock of interior town, etc., give a total crop of the U.S. last year, of about 3,360,000 bales.

In 1851 the cotton exported from the United States amounted to $112,315,317. In 1852 the value of the cotton exported from the ports of the Gulf of Mexico alone amounted to about $100,000,-000; and the products from the same ports amounted to $100,000,000 more. The total value of the cotton exported from the United States from 1790 to 1851, was $1,711,691,676.
